New family of goat's milk products from DODONI
DODONI's improved goat's milk cheese is already available in supermarkets

DODONI, the leading dairy company of Epirus, has updated the packaging of DODONI goat's milk cheese, a product rich in nutrients such as protein, calcium and vitamins.

With this undertaking and the recent launch of the goat's milk yoghurt, DODONI has significantly strengthened its family of goat's milk products, featuring excellent quality foods made with pasteurised 100% Greek goat's milk.

Studies have found that goat's milk products are associated with positive effects on the human body, as they are more easily digestible, contain high biological value proteins but less lactose, while they help to boost the immune, digestive and cardiovascular systems.

With a slightly spicy flavour and high nutritional value, DODONI goat's milk cheese is a delicious choice for any time of day, as it can be eaten on its own or in combination with other foods. It is also suitable for those following a balanced diet who may have a slight lactose intolerance.

DODONI goat's milk cheese is already available in newly designed packaging in supermarket refrigerators throughout Greece in 200 g packs, or a new 400 g pack in brine.

Committed to its values to make pure, traditional dairy products of excellent quality and authentic flavour, the DODONI dairy company continues to make strong additions to its portfolio of products, offering even more options that meet the modern consumer's nutritional needs and preferences.
